Colonial Capital Chapter of the APA Hits the Ground Running

In the sleepy little town of Williamsburg, Virginia, planning for the 400th Celebration of Jamestown is well under way. But on Tuesday, March 21, 2006 the celebration has already begun with the first official meeting of the Colonial Capital Chapter of the APA.

After advertising in local papers and on the local community cable channel, the newly-formed chapter was able to gather with 14 people for their first meeting. Attendees consisted of both payroll professionals and human resources professionals. The speaker, Mr. Richard M. Barbour from The Department of Labor Wage and Hour Division, educated attendees on Exempt Employees versus Nonexempt Employees.

At the end of the meeting, there were several drawings for door prizes. PenSoft donated a desk set, Daniel Dycus donated 3 books from Washington, DC local author Patrick Sanchez (www.patrick-sanchez.com), and the WMAC-APA donated several tote bags and clipboards.

The Colonial Capital Chapter is very excited and eager to start working and growing in the Williamsburg, VA area. Our bi-monthly meetings allow our members to network with other payroll professionals in the local community, discuss current issues affecting payroll, share resources, meet local vendors, participate in study groups for preparation for the Fundamental Payroll Certification or the Certified Payroll Professional exam, and listen to informed presentations from distinguished guest speakers. Membership Dues $40.00. Membership is for the calendar years of January 1-December 31.

WMAC-APA Donates $500 to the Colonial Capital Chapter

Daniel Dycus, CPP, President of the Washington Metropolitan Area Chapter of the APA (WMAC-APA) presented the Colonial Capital Chapter of the APA with a donation of $500.00 .

From the formative stages of the Colonial Chapter, the WMAC-APA has been instrumental in the shaping and development of this fine new addition to the APA local chapter ranks. The WMAC-APA has guided, assisted, and supported the Colonial Chapter with knowledge that could only come from over 23 years of experience as an APA chapter.. Not only did the WMAC-APA donate $500 to the Colonial Chapter as start up capital, but Daniel Dycus, CPP became a chapter member in addition to donating $100 in private funds.
